

[Read ebook] Occupational careers;: A sociological perspective,

Occupational careers;: A sociological perspective,

Walter L Slocum

*DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub*

 Download

 Read Online

1974 #File Name: 0202302687349 pages | File size: 48.Mb

Walter L Slocum : Occupational careers;: A sociological perspective, before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Occupational careers;: A sociological perspective,:

Making the important distinction between the individuals aspirations and the series of educational and occupational decisions he will make, Slocum describes the gradual tempering of the former by reality and the increasing specificity of the latter. Information obviously plays a major role in this process. Thus it is quite natural that a book aimed at informed career counseling should work close with descriptions of career patternsorganizational entrance, tenure, career mobility, salary differentials, etc.in the few elite occupations that have been studied intensively by social scientists and a broad admonition stressing education for occupational flexibility. Paul M. Siegel, American Sociological [T]he book does what it sets out to dosummarize the important research literature bearing on occupational careers. The general reader will find it a useful description of the more recent sociological contributions to occupational careers The book would also be useful to vocational counselors, personnel workers, and persons seeking information for use in career planning. Dalton E. McFarland, Industrial and Labor Relations As an overview of the sociological approach to the study of careers, this book provides counselors with another perspective on this area of professional concern Slocum affords insight into both the concerns and foibles (such as the disproportionate emphasis on high-level careers) of occupational sociology. David B. Hershenson, Personnel Guidance Journal About the Author Walter L. Slocum is currently Professor of Sociology at Washington State University. He has served as Statistician in the U.S. Department of Labor, was Assistant Chief and Chief of the Research Division of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation and Education, Veterans Administration, and was a member of the State Staff, Washington Cooperative Extension Service.