

(Ebook pdf) Other Ways to Win: Creating Alternatives for High School Graduates

Other Ways to Win: Creating Alternatives for High School Graduates

From Corwin

*ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#589158 in Books Corwin 2006-02-16 2006-02-16 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.00 x .60 x 6.001, 3.00 #File Name: 1412917816264 pages Dispels the "one way to win" myth Presents "other ways to win" that do not require a four-year college degree Provides benefits for students with alternate forms of post-high school education All teens deserve to Title - Other Ways to Win. Sub Title - Creating Alternatives for High School Graduates. | File size: 26.Mb

From Corwin : Other Ways to Win: Creating Alternatives for High School Graduates before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Other Ways to Win: Creating Alternatives for

High School Graduates:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. CTE - REALITY CHECK FOR OUR STUDENTSBy Nancy JogerstFor those of you who realize that not all student want to go to a 4 year college, this is a good of sound research, common sense, and reality. I would recommend this book to any Career and Technical Teachers, Administrators, or Counselors. We need to provide our high school student with a true career path and not all paths lead to college. Skills based training, CTE courses, internships, and other work-based experiences are keys to success too! THIS IS A MUST READ!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fantastic Thinktank Work!By Okayfine87Much better ways to approach job and career creation for younger and older people. Wish the high school and middle school counselors would stop pushing ONLY COLLEGE.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy BlackhawkShould be mandatory reading for parents, students, and anybody involved in education.

Now in its third edition, this bestseller offers new data, recommendations, and observations that explore the choices for success available to students in the academic middle.

"This is the first book I've read that concentrates on the academic middle who may not want to go to college or who may want to go but may struggle to succeed. Gray and Herr have provided educators and parents a resource full of alternative 'ways to win.' "--John Casper, Supervisor of Secondary Instruction (09/06/2005)"The authors demonstrate an effective and legitimate working knowledge of a real high school and national dilemma and write skillfully and engagingly about the dilemma."--Robert Todd, Principal (09/06/2005)"This is the first book I've read that concentrates on the academic middle who may not want to go to college or who may want to go but may struggle to succeed. Gray and Herr have provided educators and parents a resource full of alternative 'ways to win.' "--John Casper, Supervisor of Secondary Instruction (09/06/2005)"The authors demonstrate an effective and legitimate working knowledge of a real high school and national dilemma and write skillfully and engagingly about the dilemma."--Robert Todd, Principal (09/06/2005)-This is the first book I've read that concentrates on the academic middle who may not want to go to college or who may want to go but may struggle to succeed. Gray and Herr have provided educators and parents a resource full of alternative 'ways to win.' ---John Casper, Supervisor of Secondary Instruction (09/06/2005)-The authors demonstrate an effective and legitimate working knowledge of a real high school and national dilemma and write skillfully and engagingly about the dilemma.---Robert Todd, Principal (09/06/2005) "This is the first book Ive read that concentrates on the academic middle who may not want to go to college or who may want to go but may struggle to succeed. Gray and Herr have provided educators and parents a resource full of alternative ways to win. " (John Casper, Supervisor of Secondary Instruction 2005-09-06)"The authors demonstrate an effective and legitimate working knowledge of a real high school and national dilemma and write skillfully and engagingly about the dilemma." (Robert Todd, Principal 2005-09-06)About the AuthorKenneth C. Gray is a professor in the Workforce Education and Development Program at Pennsylvania State University. Prior to joining the faculty at Penn State, he was superintendent of the Vocational Technical High School System in Connecticut and has been a high school English teacher, guidance counselor, and administrator. He has published widely and is frequently quoted in the national press. He is coauthor with Edwin Herr of Workforce Education: The Basic. His latest book, Getting Real: Helping Teens Find Their Future, addresses the importance of helping teenagers develop career direction as a prerequisite to postsecondary success. He holds a BA in economics from Colby College, an MA in counseling psychology from Syracuse University, and a doctorate in technical education from Virginia Tech.Edwin L. Herr is Distinguished Emeritus Professor of Education (Counselor Education and Counseling Psychology) and Emeritus Associate Dean, College of Education, Pennsylvania State University. He received his BS degree in Business Education from Shippensburg State Teachers College (Now Shippensburg University), and an MA and EdD in Counseling and Student Personnel Administration from Teachers College, Columbia University, where he was an Alumni Fellow. A former business teacher, school counselor, and director of guidance, he previously served as Assistant and Associate Professor of Counselor Education at the State University of New York at Buffalo (1963-1966) and as the First Director of the Bureau of Guidance Services and the Bureau of Pupil Personnel Services, Pennsylvania Department of Education (1966-1968). The author or coauthor of more than 300 articles and 32books and monographs, he is Past President of the American Counseling Association, Past President of the National Vocational Guidance Association, and Past President of the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision. He has been elected a Fellow of the American Psychological Association, the American Psychological Society, the American Association for Applied and Preventive Psychology, and the National Career Development Association. Among his many awards, he has received the Eminent Career Award of the National Career Development Association, the extended research award from the American Counseling Association, and the Counseling Innovation and Vision Award of the Association for Counselor Education and Supervision.