Gyles Brandreth : Oxford Dictionary of Humorous Quotations 5e before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Oxford Dictionary of Humorous Quotations 5e:

MarvelousBy GEDTEACHThis book may find a place in your reference library only, but I enjoyed it so much that I found myself reading it from cover to cover twice. It's indexed by subject and/or author, another feature that I liked about it. You may like the humor it presents, as I did, or you may find in it a history, of sorts, of the subtle but definite changes in our culture. Several members of my family even received copies for Christmas; I thought it a classic and durable choice. Winston Churchill is still my personal favorite, but then I'm an Anglophile and he's the epitome of British, in my book! Cheers! 0 of 8 people found the following review helpful. humorless collection of idiotic "what to call it" By Anton B. Vizy meaningless, humorless collection of idiotic "what to call it...."

Writer, broadcaster, and wit Gyles Brandreth has completely revised Ned Sherrin's classic collection of wisecracks, one-liners, and anecdotes. With over 1,000 new quotations throughout the media, it's easy to find hilarious quotes on subjects ranging from Argument to Diets, from Computers to the Weather. Add sparkle to your speeches and presentations, or just enjoy a good laugh in the company of Oscar Wilde, Mark Twain, Joan Rivers, Kathy Lette, Frankie Boyle, and friends. 'Now we have the World Wide Web (the only thing I know of whose shortened form-www-takes three times longer to say than what it's short for)' Douglas Adams 'Not only is there no God, but try getting a plumber on weekends' Woody Allen 'Never go to bed mad. Stay up and fight' Phyllis Diller 'Having a baby is like getting a tattoo on your face. You really need to be certain it's what you want before you commit' Elizabeth Gilbert 'The trouble with having an open mind, of course, is that people will insist on coming along and trying to put things in it' Terry Pratchett 'Retreat, hell! We're only attacking in another direction' American General Oliver P. Smith
