Richard C. Russell, Domenico P. Otranto, Richard L. Wall : The Encyclopedia of Medical and Veterinary Entomology before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Encyclopedia of Medical and Veterinary Entomology:

Updated, developed and reworked from Doug Kettle's seminal Medical and Veterinary Entomology, this major new reference presents vital information in encyclopedia format, with alphabetical entries and an extensive index to make key facts easy to find. This new treatment of the subject provides accessible content and up-to-date research, illustrated by line drawings and color photographs.

About the AuthorRichard C. Russell is Professor of Medical Entomology at The University of Sydney, and founding Director of the Department of Medical Entomology at Westmead Hospital. He has worked as a Medical Entomologist, in public health and tropical medicine, for more than 40 years, and has a broad experience with insects and other arthropods of medical importance. Domenico P. Otranto is at University of Bari, Italy. Richard L. Wall is at University of Bristol, UK.
